Report for One day Guest Lecture on Research Methodology 20th October 2021

One day Guest Lecture provides an opportunity to elaborate about Research Methodology is crucial for its numerous benefits in producing reliable and valid results. Firstly, it provides a systematic framework, guiding researchers in planning, executing, and evaluating their studies

The main objective This ensures consistency and reproducibility, enhancing the study's credibility. Methodologies help in minimizing biases, maintaining objectivity, and ensuring the collection of accurate data. Additionally, a well-defined research methodology enables the replication of studies, fostering the verification of findings and the advancement of knowledge. It also aids in identifying appropriate research tools, techniques, and analytical methods, contributing to the overall rigor of the research process. Ultimately, a sound research methodology enhances the overall quality and trustworthiness of research outcomes

One day Guest Lecture on 'Research Methodology' was organized by Kaizen Department of Management Studies on 20th October 2021.

GUEST LECTURER ON APPLICATION OF NANOMATERIALS- (03.12.2021)

The guest lecture on the "Applications of Nanomaterials" by Dr. P. Neeraja held on 03.12.2021 proved to be a captivating exploration into the cutting-edge advancements in nanotechnology. Dr. Neeraja, a distinguished expert in the field, shared profound insights into the versatile applications of nanomaterials, catering to an audience comprising students, faculty, and industry professionals. Dr. Neeraja began the lecture with a comprehensive overview of nanomaterials, highlighting their unique properties and the transformative impact they have on various industries. The audience gained a deeper understanding of the nanoscale phenomena that distinguish these materials.

The guest lecturer delved into the myriad applications of nanomaterials in the medical field. From targeted drug delivery systems to diagnostic imaging and personalized medicine, Dr. Neeraja showcased how nanotechnology is revolutionizing healthcare, offering more effective and precise solutions.

The lecture extended to the realm of energy and the environment, where nanomaterials are contributing to the development of efficient solar cells, advanced energy storage systems, and environmental remediation technologies. Attendees gained insights into how nanotechnology is playing a pivotal role in addressing global challenges.

Dr. Neeraja highlighted breakthroughs in materials science facilitated by nanomaterials, such as enhanced mechanical properties, improved catalytic activity, and the development of novel materials with unprecedented functionalities. The potential for innovation and discovery in this field captivated the audience.

The lecture concluded with an engaging question-and-answer session, allowing participants to seek clarification, share perspectives, and delve deeper into specific areas of interest. Dr. Neeraja's responses further enriched the discussion, fostering a collaborative and knowledge-sharing atmosphere.

Dr. P. Neeraja's guest lecture on the applications of nanomaterials was a resounding success, providing a comprehensive exploration of the transformative potential of nanotechnology. Attendees left with a heightened appreciation for the diverse applications of nanomaterials across various domains. The event not only expanded their knowledge but also inspired further research and exploration in the dynamic field of nanotechnology.

Report

Dr. M. Manivannan delivered an insightful Guest Lecture on the "Importance and Growth of Device Quality Single Crystal for Device Fabrication" in the M-3 Class Room in Physics Department. The presentation shed light on the crucial role of high-quality single crystals in various device fabrication processes. Attendees, including A. Kiruthika, R. Megha, S. Ishwariya, and N.A. Varsha from different years of the physics program, gained valuable insights into the significance of single crystal growth techniques in advancing device technologies. Dr. Manivannan emphasized the importance of single crystals in enhancing device performance, reliability, and efficiency. He discussed various methods employed for growing single crystals with the desired properties, highlighting techniques such as Czochralski method, Bridgman-Stockbarger method, and vapor-phase epitaxy. Furthermore, he elucidated the challenges associated with crystal growth and the importance of optimizing growth conditions to achieve device-quality crystals.

The presentation, supported by a well-prepared PowerPoint delivered by A. Kiruthika and R. Megha, provided a comprehensive overview of the topic, covering both theoretical aspects and practical applications. Attendees left the lecture with a deeper understanding of the critical role played by single crystals in modern device fabrication processes, equipped with knowledge that will undoubtedly contribute to their academic and professional endeavors in the field of physics.

Report:

The Department of Nutrition and Dietetics recently organized a series of engaging events to celebrate Nutrition Week and promote healthy eating habits among students. Mrs. J. Kavitha, the Managing Partner of EOFL, Hosur, graced the occasion as the chief guest. Her insightful speech emphasized the importance of having breakfast, avoiding meal skipping, traditional food preparation methods, and the significance of incorporating millets into one's diet. Following Mrs. Kavitha's enlightening address, the department hosted a captivating "Miss Nutrition" competition, where participants showcased their knowledge and understanding of nutrition-related topics. The winners of the competition were honoured and crowned by Mrs. Kavitha, adding a touch of celebration to the event. The active participation of students from the Department of Nutrition and Dietetics underscored their enthusiasm and commitment to advancing nutrition education and advocating for healthy lifestyle choices. Overall, these events served as platforms for learning, inspiration, and community building, reflecting the department's dedication to promoting holistic well-being among students and beyond.

Report for One day Guest Lecture on Benefits of Millets 20th March 2023

One day Guest Lecture provides an opportunity to elaborate Millets, a group of small-seeded grains, offer numerous health benefits. Packed with nutrients like fiber, vitamins, and minerals, millets contribute to digestive health and weight management.

Their low glycemic index makes them an excellent choice for managing blood sugar levels. Millets are gluten-free, making them suitable for those with gluten sensitivities. They also possess antioxidant properties, promoting overall well-being. Cultivating millets is environmentally sustainable, requiring less water and resources compared to traditional crops. Additionally, millets play a vital role in crop diversification, supporting agricultural resilience. Their versatility in culinary applications adds to their appeal, making millets a nutritious and sustainable food choice.

One day Guest Lecture on 'Benefits of Millets' was organized by Kaizen Department of Management Studies on 20th March 2023.

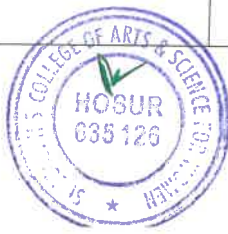

The resource person Mrs. J. Kavitha, Chairman of Hoteliers Skill Development Academy, Hosur. All BBA (CA) Students are participated in the Session. The venue Joseph's Block Seminar Hall.
